HONOLULU, Feb. 8, 1865.

MR. EDITOR-" The following particulars respecting the cultivation of sugar, extracted from a report of the Agricultural Society of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Sept. 1829," may interest these of your readers who are engaged in the sugar enterprises of the Hawaiian Islands :

"The gross product of one hand, on a well regulated sugar estate, is put down at the cultivation of five acres, producing 5,000 pounds of sugar, and 125 gallons of molasses; the former raised on the spot at 54 cents per pound, and the latter, at 18 cents per gallon, together, $29,750. The annual expense of each hand, including wages paid, horses, mules, and oxen, physician's bills, &c., is $105. An estate with 80 negroes, annually costs $8,130. The items are as follows: sait, meat, and spirits, $830; clothing of all sorts, $1200; medical attendence, and medicines, $400; fulling co.m., $1,000; overseer's and open maker's salary, $1,000; taxes, $300; annual loss on a capacit of $50,000 in negroes, at 25 per cent. $1.250; horses and oven, $1.300; repairs of boilers, $550; do. of ploughs, carts, &c., $300. Total, $5.500. Fifteen acres are required for each hand, five for cultivation in case, five in fallow, or rest, and five in wood-land. The annual consumption of wood, on an estate of 80 newroes, is 800 cords. Two crops of cane are generally made in succession on the same land, one of plant cane, the other of catoon; it then lies fallow two years, or is planted in corn or peas. One hand will tend five acres, besides outling his proportion of wood, and ploughing 25 acres of fallow ground. "The capital vested in 1200 acres of land, with its stock of slaves, horses, mules, and working exen, is estimated at 147,200 states, nor a deliars. One third, or 400 seres, being cultivated in case, yields 400,000 pounds at 54 cents; and 10,000 gallons of molasses, at 18 cents; -together, 25,800 dodars. Deduct annual expenses as before, 8,330 dollars, aving an apparent profit of 15,470 doltars, or 10 3-7 per cent, interest on the investment.

In a report made the following year, however, it appears the Society were misled by the abundant and extraordinary crop of 1827, and they give it as their opinion, that the rate of income is not more than six per cent.

The average amount of sugar produced per acre is here estimated at 1000 pounds and 125 gallons of molasses, and the total of capital for an estate 1299 acres producing 400,000 pounds per annum, is set down at $147,200. The amount of wood consumed seems large, being four cords of wood for each ton of sugar. I will not enter into any comparison of the details of this statement, with our sugar culture at the islands, further than to say that in every respect the islands have very superior advantages for sugar cultivation. The amount of capital required for a good plantation of the specified size here, exclusive of negroes, certainly not exceeding $75,000 to $100,000, whilst the labor is less at present and the average yield not less than 3000 pounds per scre at a moderate estimate. Add to this that the cane of Louisiana sometimes suffers from late frosts in the spring and early frosts in the autumn, and we

It is said that some of our sugar estates require a large amount of fuel for steam purposes and evaporation, but I know of none which approaches to the amount stated in this report. I do not know what our first class works would require were they conof the estates is chiefly trash, as I am informed, the strippings of the cane, of which there are from three to five on the plantations, being relied upon to keep up the strength of the land. The proportion of land to the whole area of the plantation which is usually under cultivation here, will be found much less I think than what is stated in the report, that is where the proprietor depends upon his own land for the cane from which he manufactures his sugar, and the balance of chances of success in the sugar enterprise largely in favor of the Hawaiian Islands.

whilst many of the cane fields are absolutely larger. The question of labor promises to become an important one to the planter, especially in reference to a further extension of the sugar producing interests of the islands. To meet this want the last Legislature passed an act creating an Emigration Board, proposing to loan the credit of the Government for the importation of such classes of laborers, both male and female, as might be found upon personal inquiry and examination by a judicious government agent, best adapted to promote the development of the true agricultural and moral interests of the islands. The government very justly reasoned, that selections of laborers made by its duly appointed and qualified agents with no pecuniary interest to advance, but simply to supply a pressing want with what was best suited to it, would be more likely to be of suitable persons than selections by any person or persons merely aiming to make a profitable speculation. If the government contracts in China or elsewhere with laborers, it will be much more likely to select such as will prove useful and industrious citizens and subjects, adding strength to the state. in the event of their choosing to continue in the country after the expiration of their contracts, than can be hoped for from any private enterprise. The former would aim to import healthy young men with their wives, the latter would be most likely to confine their importations chiefly to unmarried men as the most profitable. The relations of the government to the laborers which it imports, will not only be likely to bring here a better class, but will bring it into direct relation to the planter as a contracting party, and hence with more ability to guard against any abuses by either the laborer or his employer in their relations to each other, than can consist with the freedom of a private enterprise. The government proposes no profit or speculation, but simply to make such charges as will refund to it its outlay, thus serving its own interest by procuring as far as possible healthy laborers in families, and giving to the planter a more valuable laborer than he would otherwise be able to procure-but it is essential that the Emigration Board enter at once and energetically upon its work. If it delays sequence we shall be likely to have a class introduced which neither government or planter will find promotive of their best interests; indeed I have heard that such an enterprise has been already inaugurated by private parties upon their own responsibility, on account of the delay already experienced. Of this no one can complain, but however well conducted, private enterprise cannot be expected, as before remarked, to secure so valuable a class as may be reasonably expected through government importation.

I close this unintentionally long communication by cle upon the sugar culture of the Sandwich Islands, published in the November number of Hunts' Merchant's Magazine. He says :-

But the government should move at once and effec-

"I observe by late papers that you (meaning the planters and government) have been taking active steps to obtain a supply of Chinese coolies, the test thing which you have done for a long time. I am armly convinced of the great advantage of importing this race of men for sugar growing, and believe them to be superior-by all odds-to African slaves. I have seen the two races working side by side in the largest sugar mills of Cuba, and have heard Spanian's acknowledge that they did more work than the staves. If carefully selected and chosen rather from believe that your people will have the trouble they seem to anticipate from their lying and thieving | Flori, and not far from the Farnese Palace. A given Auchingloss, Esq., of New York, author of an arti- | length was taken, suspended and gradually weighed till it broke, the elongations succeeding each additional weighting being duly registered. The cable selected bore the weight of six and three-fifths tons. The case, the spiral wires involving it, the insulating body, the jute yarn, and each separate strand of the cable were similarly tested. It was found from those experiments that the more the fibres of wire were brought into tension, the greater became its strength, and that as an insulator gutta percha, although not so perfect as India rubber, is far more durable, and that the cable as now manufactured will be able to bear a strain four times its own weight when laid at the bottom of the Atlantic.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES-There are 104 public libraries in the country, which number not less than 10000 bound volumes each. The aggregate of the whole is 2.403,477. Of these libraries only 8, with an aggregate of 152,000 volumes, are in territory now under rebel control. The largest public library in the country is that of Harvard University, with 140,000 volumes. The Aster Library has 120,000. The Boston public library, the youngest on the list, ranks thrd, having 110,563 volumes. Yale College has 42,-000. Brown University (one of the choicest libraries in the country) 31,000. Dartmouth College 15,679. The Portsmouth Athenseum, established in 1817, closes the list with 10,000 volumes. Massachusetts has 20 libraries, or nearly one-fifth of the entire list, and 614,415 volumes-four times as many as the whole Southern Confederacy. New York has 16 libraries with 488,838 volumes. California, Michigan, Tennessee, Georgia and Vermont rank below New Hampshire. According to the latest returns, Great Britain has only 48 libraries which exceed 10,000 volumes, and France only 38. It is estimated that all the public and educational libraries of the United States contain 1,250,000 volumes.

ACCIDENT AT MONT BLANC .- A fatal accident has lately occurred at Mont Blanc, being the first since Dr. Hamel's accident in 1820. Two Austrian gentlemen had made a successful ascent of the mountain, and were descending to the grand plateau. A young porter, Ambroise Couttel, was some distance in front, not attached to the rope. He took a direction too near the edge of the plateau, and just as the guide of the party shouted to warn him of his danger he was engulped in a crevasse before the eyes of the others. The crevasse was ninety feet of sheer depth, and the rope was not long enough to reach the bottom. The guides approached the edge of the crevasse and leaned over. They saw the traces of the man's fall, and called, but received no answer. The cold on the plateau was intense, and feeling convinced that the man was dead they continued their route. The same evening a party of guides left Chamouni to recover the body. Two of them, Michael Payot and Simon Pierre Benoit, descended ninety feet to the turn of the crevasse, but could get no further, from the badness of the air. They lowered a bottle one hundred feet more, which came up covered with hair. The head guide of the party is blamed for not having enforced the use of the rope on all members of the party. There have never been as many ascents of Mont Blanc made in one season as this year; and the feat is no longer one which imparts even a temporary notoriety. It only has the merit of being expensive and fatiguing.

EXCITING SCENE IN A MENAGERIE.-The Council Bluffs Bugle says that recently while a menagerie was on exhibition in the city, a violent storm sprang up, which blew down the pavilion, which immediately took fire and was nearly all consumed. The accident took place in the midst of the exhibition, and there were from one to two thousand people in the pavilion. It is impossible to describe the confusion which took place. Men, women and children were buried under the canvas; but, fortunately, the center pole and braces fell with one end upon the cages of the wild beasts, so as to allow a large portion of the audience to escape. The canvas of the north top canvas falling upon the kerosene lamps, immediately took fire, and at one time there was great danger of many being consumed by the fast spreading lames; but fortunately all escaped, and not a man, woman or child was seriously hurt. Such confusion was never before witnessed. Men calling for their wives wives, for their husbands, mothers for children. and children for their mothers-all was confusion. Just at this time two cages which had been placed together for the purpose of forming the den of wild beasts, which Professor Scars enters during the exhibition, became separated, and the back door being open, out leaped a huge lioness. Then arose the cry, 'A lion out." Then there was confusion worse confounded, and a stampede took place equaled only by the stampede of the Congressmen from Buli Run. The keeper of the lion caught it around the neck, another man belonging to the concern jumped into the cage and threw the leopard (which, being in the same cage with the lion, was about to escape) down in a corner and held it while the bystanders closed the cage. The lion was put back into the cage and all was quiet. Nobody hurt.

Parliament meets on the 1st of February. The breach between the Papal Government and the Prussian Minister at Rome is widening. A large open air meeting of the operatives of Manchester adapted resolutions strongly opposing Alluding to the Florida disaster, the London Times says : Assuming it to have been by design, we are not disposed to waste much indignation on the subject, as the method of procuring and equipping the Florida was such a violation of neutrality as to deprive the sufferers of sympathy. Brazil is really the outraged party. The Times predicts that Seward will make an apology.

An extraordinary affair lately occurred in the town of Orel, in Russia. A great local land owner had a large sum (forty-three thousand silver roubles) to receive through the police of that town. applying for the amount he was told that the money could not be handed over to him unles he presented the office with five thousand silver roubles. He refused and immediately reported the case to St. Petersburg, and the money was paid over to him. But on the evening of the same day, as he was quietly smoking in his study, a loud ring was heard at the bell. The servant on opening the door, was instantly pinioned, and four men, their faces covered with black crape, rushed into the room and told him he must hand over his forty three thousand roubles. With the greatest coolness he went over to his strong box, spened it, seized a revolver which was laid on the top shelf, and shot two of the robbers dead, the other two immediately taking to their heels. On the crape being removed from the faces of the dead men they were recognized as the head of the police and his secretary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 .- The London Times has an editorial on a letter of Secretary Seward in reply to Lord Wharneliffe's application to distribute aid to rebel prisoners. It says the animus displayed is no slight testimony to the course taken by her Majesty's Government in its dealings with the Union. He cannot conceal that he is driven to make the most of the opportunity offered by people who are irresponsible, as representatives of the British nation. His letter indicates that he is prepared to make the most of the least official slip that might be made on the part of the British Cabinet or any of its representatives. Seward must be hard pressed when he thinks it necessary to express so much indignation over so trifling an affair. The Times questions the wisdom or good sense of Lord Wharncliffe's offer, but it reviles Seward's charges against the British people, and concludes by saying that he knows that in every one of the questions raised we are only moving in lines already laid down for us by statesmen, conscience and public opinion in the United States. Whatever abuse Seward chooses to lavish on us simply recoils on the heads of his own people.

A letter published in the city article of the Times on trading regulations with the South contends that they are calculated to impede rather than promote traffic. He asserts that the only available channel for getting cotton is through the blockade, and that the difficulties of this trade have been increased not by the great efficiency of the blockade, but by the regulations of the Confederate Government, tending to give itself a monopoly of the profits of blockade
